'Did You Know' – intriguing facts about the Gallery

- The biggest cultural event in Warwick in recent years is the fabulous and quirky 'Jumpers and Jazz in July' festival. For ten days during our chilliest months artists, locals and visitors celebrate the cold by creating artwork for over 150 deciduous trees lining the main streets of the CBD. The materials used for tree jumpers are varied and creative. They include wool, plastic bottles, feathers, knitted plastic bags, rope and paper. Artists from England and New Zealand participate alongside accomplished Australian artists and enthusiastic locals and groups. The tree jumper that has travelled the furthest distance to be part of the Festival was created in Lincolnshire, England. This artist has been contributing a tree jumper to the Festival for 4 years, but hasn't quite made it to Warwick to visit yet! The Exhibition of tree jumpers is supported by a comprehensive program of music, art and workshops.
- The Gallery participates in the Warwick Peace Festival on a biennial basis by curating an exhibition in support of the festival theme. In 2009 the project resulted in a collaborative exhibition that connected an internationally exhibited artist with strong family connections to Warwick (Paul du Moulin) with two community art groups (Warwick Potters Association and the Condamine Cultural Arts Mob). The multi-media exhibition of painting, sculpture and art installations represented the artists' connections with the community, the environment and how this contributes to the community's sense of harmony and peace.
- Warwick was the venue for the famous "egg incident" in 1917. The Warwick Egg Incident (WEGGI) refers to the egging of Prime Minister Billy Hughes by Pat and Bart Brosnan at the Warwick Railway Station on 29 November 1917. The brothers were protesting their opposition to conscription during World War 1. The WEGGI is well known as a flashpoint in Queensland and Australian political history. In 2007 Warwick Art Gallery commemorated this event by inviting school children to create "railway sleeper" sized artworks that were displayed as a track throughout the Gallery.
